What's THE VOICE all about??

As we will be voting in a Referendum to change our Constitution, it would seem important to find out as much as possible about the topic in order to express well our both our citizenship and our faith when we vote Yes or No to the change.

Here is one resource recently held, which presents the topic and was recorded and has been made available to be viewed generally.

Donations sought for CatholicCare Op Shop in Wilcannia

St Joan of Arc Parish community is supporting the Catholic community of Wilcannia in Far West NSW and Sr Elizabeth Young, who is providing a church presence as a parish coordinator in the community. Wilcannia is located 200km east of their Parish Priest, who is based in Broken Hill.

Donations will be collected at masses on 12 & 13 August 2023

- New underwear (briefs, knickers, singlets and socks) – all sizes, please keep tags on
- Religious items (prayer cards, devotional images, small statuettes)

Our Vision as presented in our Strategic Plan

"...a welcoming and modern Catholic community grounded in faith and spirituality, we want to engage with and build a broader community, particularly among the young and with the families of our local Catholic school as well as providing pastoral outreach to those in need within our Haberfield community and also reach out to deliver broader social justice in our community, our nation and beyond."

PIETY STORE

Our Store is situated inside the front door of the Church on the Presbytery side. It is open often before and always after each Weekend Mass (unless something unforeseen prevents this).

We have several new gift items for children making their First Holy Communion in the Piety Stall as well as a variety of other Religious goods including Rosaries, Bibles, Books etc. Gifts for Confirmation, Baptism and other occasions are available too.

(Credit cards accepted—MC/Visa)

Note from Fr Phil

Last Sunday, at all Masses, I informed the Parish that, with the agreement of Archbishop Fisher, I will be retiring from active ministry probably at the end of October this year.

That means my time here at St Joan of Arc will be coming to an end. And I would like to thank you all for your trust and acceptance and prayers. Please keep these going as will mine for you. The generosity you have shown when a good cause is put before you is a blessing. And the willingness to take on building up the Parish is very inspiring.

Retirement is a personal choice that I have made after about 40 years of responsibility for parish communities.

Who is Palms Australia?

With over 60 years experience, Palms Australia recruits qualified and experienced Australians who participate in an exchange of knowledge and skills to meet the requests of overseas communities seeking to reduce poverty by developing the capacities of their people and organisations.

What skills are we looking for?

The skills we recruit are determined by the requests we receive from community organisations overseas including educators, accountants, managers, tradespeople, agriculturalists, IT specialists, community and social workers, doctors, & health workers.

Where are the current opportunities?

We currently have requests from communities in Papua New Guinea, Zambia, Tanzania, Timor Leste, Kiribati, Solomon Islands, Samoa, Cambodia, Philippines and American Samoa. New requests are added regularly.

REFLECTION

“The men in the boat bowed down before him and said, ‘Truly, you are the Son of God.’”

In August last year, more than eight thousand people crossed the English Channel in small boats from mainland Europe, attempting to reach Britain. Even in the summer such crossings can be precarious. The small boats are often in poor condition and overcrowded. In November 2021 a boat capsized, taking thirty-one lives, after the passengers desperately called for help for six hours. The dinghy floundered in choppy waters without rescue.

The 2019 film The Flood gives insight into the fears of passengers in a small boat on a rough sea. Asylum seeker Haile, from Eritrea, is in a boat full of refugees crossing the Mediterranean. It is buffeted by large waves and springs a leak. Despite the frantic efforts of the passengers to shovel the water out with their hands, the boat sinks. Haile survives but we later see him on a beach in Italy littered with life jackets, remnants from many similar journeys. Several thousand refugees are killed crossing the Mediterranean and seas around Western Europe every year, and thousands more face a perilous journey as the water lashing around their unseaworthy inflatable boats threatens to end their lives. Throughout Haile's trials in the water and on land he has faith in God. During his time in a refugee camp in northern France, waiting for an opportunity to travel to England, we see Haile seeking comfort in prayer at the makeshift church in the camp.

Today's Gospel tells a story about fear of drowning and faith in God. It comes on the heels of the feeding of the five thousand but it was the miracle of Jesus walking on the water that, more than any other, convinced Jesus' disciples that he was indeed the Son of God. The story unfolds on the Sea of Galilee. Jesus had suggested the disciples get into a boat and go on ahead to the other side while he prayed alone, but they were not able to cross with a storm battering their boat. Peter and the disciples spent nearly the whole night struggling to get across before Jesus showed up. They were terrified, and were reassured only when Jesus walked to them across the water, pulling Peter out of the water on the way. When Jesus got into the boat, the wind ceased.

The story demonstrates that Jesus is Lord of the wind and sea, and also compassionate in serving others. It helps establish the identity of Jesus. Jesus proves himself able to take command of the elements, something only God can do. This is the first time Jesus is called the Son of God by the disciples, a statement that builds on what they had said earlier about him: "Whatever kind of man is this? Even the winds and the sea obey him." Here they answer their own question: "Truly, you are the Son of God." Christian groups such as Seeking Sanctuary and various Justice and Peace commissions have documented the plight of refugees forced to undertake perilous journeys by land and sea. Other groups reach out to seafarers who can suffer from loneliness, depression, spiritual deprivation and exploitation on the seas. Stella Maris chaplains and volunteers, for example, visit hundreds of thousands of seafarers and fisherfolk every year. They listen and chat, they arrange Mass on board ships, they offer practical help in a crisis and bring free Wi-Fi on board so that seafarers can call home.

Jesus is shown to be kind and merciful in today's Gospel, but he also has the power to defy the laws of nature. Sometimes turbulent places are also "thin places", where God breaks through. It is the nature of faith to be willing to throw oneself into a disorderly world and hope to encounter Jesus there. And, as Peter discovered, Jesus extends life-giving stability amidst chaos and danger. He has compassion for people fearing for their lives. The story prompts reflection, about who Jesus is and about the nature of faith. Just as Jesus puts out his hand and holds Peter, he can also grasp us by the hand when we sink into our own seas of worries at times. Often we fear the difficult experiences of life such as illness, loss of loved ones, and financial hardships, only to discover that these experiences can bring Jesus closer to us. It is our mission to reach out to others who are suffering and fearful, just as Jesus did.

We're looking forward to kicking off the next Season of Alpha in our parish at 10am on Monday mornings from 28th August 2023.

Alpha is a great opportunity to learn more about Jesus and the Christian faith. It's open to everyone and presented in a series of videos and discussions where we get to ask some of the big questions in a welcoming, safe, and friendly environment. So far, we've had over 60 people participate in Alpha, who've found it has helped grow their personal faith, as well as build friendships with others in our community.

This season will be particularly special, as Rhonda has kindly offered to host the sessions in her home, just a short stroll from the church. Starting at 10am each Monday morning, we're hoping this time might suit parents of school aged children or others who found evening sessions difficult.

If you're curious, we welcome you to join us for the first episode. It's totally free and there's no commitment. Just come and see.

For more information, contact us on 0404 88 22 77 or alpha@stjoanofarc.org.au
